TAG Expands Software Practice Area

Rapidly Growing San Diego-Based Outsourced Accounting Consultancy Expands Client Base By Adding Six New Long-term Accounts

SAN DIEGO – TAG, Southern California’s premier outsourced accounting consultancy, announced its continued growth with the addition of California-based clients, Burch Construction, J.G. Tate Construction, X Controls, Dickinson Cameron and Lyon Technologies. TAG also expanded its reach outside of the region by adding Ron Wilson Companies, a distributor based in Reno, NV. TAG will help all six companies improve their accounting software capabilities.

The addition of six new clients brings TAG’s diverse client base to over 400, securing their position as one of the largest Sage Software Authorized business partners in Southern California.

“We’ve found through leveraging and enhancing technology, we can help optimize our clients’ business processes, enabling companies to grow their businesses to the next level,” said Steve Bond, executive vice president of TAG. “Our skilled team looks forward to helping our new clients maximize their technology investment to make smart, effective business decisions.”

Though a series of recent software acquisitions, including, Southern California Computer Services, a business application and IT consulting company, and Contractor Software Corporation, a provider of job cost accounting software for the construction industry, TAG’s team of experienced advisors continues to gain recognition for improving their clients’ efficiency and reporting capabilities through technology.

TAG's newest client partners include:

Burch Construction(www.burchcon.com): A California based contractor specializing in Metal Studs, Drywall, Lath & Plaster, EIFS, Sprayed Fireproofing and Acoustical Ceilings on Federal ,State, Educational & Commercial Projects. Burch selected TAG to help enhance their construction management capabilities by migrating from Contractor V Software to Sage Timberline Office.

J.G. Tate Construction (www.jgtate.com): J.G. Tate Construction has chosen Sage Timberline Office to manage their service, repair and inspection division.

X Controls (www.xcigreen.com): By appointing TAG to implement Sage Timberline Office, the provider of sales, installation and service of facility management systems, based in Sorrento Valley, will benefit from streamlining their processes and taking control of their service management process.

Dickinson Cameron(www.dickinsoncameron.com): The design build general contractor that builds high-end retail stores nationwide, has employed TAG to transition them from a legacy system to Sage Timberline Office. This move will allow the company to take advantage of the system's cross-functional capabilities to pull all their finances together for streamlined, single-source control.

Lyon Technologies (www.lyonusa.com): One of the top manufactures of incubation, brooding and rearing products as well as AICUs (Animal Intensive Care Unit) line. Lyon selected TAG to help the implement and maintain Sage MAS 200. This scalable ERP solution will increase efficiency at Lyon Technology by providing detailed and accurate tracking and reporting throughout the entire manufacturing process.

Ron Wilson Companies: No longer able to manage their business using their DOS-based legacy system, this rapidly growing high-end beauty supply distributor chose TAG to implement Sage MAS 200. The solution will enable Ron Wilson Companies to cut costs and build profits by efficiently managing their inventory supply chain.

TAG currently has 35 employees and has offices in San Diego and La Jolla. The company was founded in 1996 as two separate companies: The Accounting Group and Next Stage Software. Along with its acquisitions in its software practice area, TAG recently announced the acquisition of McKean Financial, a La Jolla based company providing family office services. It anticipates announcing additional acquisitions in the coming months and plans on adding offices in Orange County and Riverside in the next year.
